A Sequence to ! avory Sausage. The Battmore Evening News a few days ago contained the following "sausage story:" "A very laughable story is current about a minister in Harford county. It is as follows : One Sunday, not very long ago, he had to attend a funeral just before the hour of morning service. An invitation to take breakfast with a neighbor had been accepted by him, and he arose early, stopping at his friend's awelling on the way to the cometery, where the turial was to take place. Some prime country sausage was served during the morning meal.

"Now the pastor was very fond of sausage, and whilst busily engaged in discussing hot buckwheat cakes, coffee and other savory viands, he praised the quality of the sausage highly Seeing that the minister's palate was cickled with the compound, the 'guid wife' presented him with a sung package, done up with leaf lard, when he left them. Thanking her, the clergyman stowed the sausage away in one of his volumi ious coat tail peckets, and, bidding them good day, proceeded on to the chu ca yard to perform the l s sad rives for the dead. "Soon the tuneral train arrived, and taking his position by the grave the minister tagen to read the burial service. He had gotten about half way through when he felt a pluck at one of his coat tails, and casting a glance behird, saw a lean and hungry looking yellow dog with both yes fas:ened intently upon the prescher's nether garments. A sort of cold perspiration dampened the reader's brow for an tostant, but he proceeded calmly and without hesitation.

"Another minute passed and neither the dog nor the minister changed positions. At the end of that time the oder of the succulent sausage again tickled the animal's nostrile. and he sneaked up close behind the good man and got hold of one end of the package, which projected slightly from the pocket. He got the lining of the coat also in his teeth and the pastor felt for the second time a pull at his garment.
"Without looking back he draw up his foot and kicked at the bruce. The dog let go his hold on the package and dodged. For some minutes the situation was unchanged, but the temptation was too strong for the due; he made a sudden bolt and grabbed the whole end of the coat in his teeth with a suddenness that caused the minister to s umbler. He kept his feet, however, and let out a kick b: hind at the dog which would have pulverized him had it taken effect. As it was, the minister's spees were jolted down on the end of his nose, and the wild effort he made to keep his balance caused some small boys at the back of the m urners to spicker out loud.

"A sharp, reproving glance from the clergyman caused them to cease and the burial was finished without further interruption. But the trouble for the day was not yet over. The min s or went into church and the service proceed ed smoothly until he was about to begin his sermon. "Just then a deacon recollected a notice whice was to be given out, and he went around in the rear of the pulpit, the steps of which the minister had just ascended, to tell him to give the not co before the sermon. He knew of no other way to call the prescher's attention, so he went up one or two steps and pulled his coat-

'It was a most unfortunate act. The good man's ire had been considerably roused by the ridiculcus figure he had cut in the morning, and thinking the dog was again behind, he shot out s foot, which took the deacon just about the third vest buttor, knocking him flat upon his back on the chances floor, with every speck of breath clear out of his body. The noise of his fall roused the minister and he hastened to assist him to his feet, after which a full explanation informed the congregation of the reason for the singular conduct of their postor." [A passable yarn; but it is hoped no further attempt will be made to palm it off on the present generation as original. It was published in 1858 or '59 in a facetious print known as "Yankee Notions," and was probably ancient then, It is, therefore, high time it had become current in Harford county.]

THE GHETTO AT ROME -Another r lie of med zeral narrow mindedness and bigotry is about to vanish from the fact of the earth. It has at length been resolved by the municipality of Rome that the venerable Ghetto shall be leveled with the ground in order that a number of stately houses may be erected upon its site. The huge group of sordid buildings thus senteneed to destruction is the most ancient of its kind in Southern Europe. It existed long before the reign of Julius Casar, and during that of the Emperor Augustus was occupied by nearly 8,000 inmaces. The originator of the Ghetto is stated to have been King Herod who caused a palece to be built near the Pons Jan culensis for the accommodation of his sons and diplomatic envoys when visiting Rome. When the Apostles Peter and Paul came to the Eternal City, there to preach the Gospel, they abode in the Ghetto. Ten centuries later it was the residence of the celebrated Israelitish have now in store a fine stock of Ivoryjaweler Elkanan Diodato, who became a Christain, and whose grandson, under the name of Anaclete II., occurred the Papal throng from Chests, Skates, &c.,—useful holiday presents.
